

Military Strategy and the Struggles of Modern America

Our nation is facing significant challenges both domestically and internationally. Major General Bob Dees (US Army, Retired) has provided keen insights into these tumultuous times, highlighting key areas where our strength and resilience are being tested.

Both foreign and domestic threats aim to destroy the American Republic and take away the liberty our forefathers fought to preserve. Now is a critical time in our nation's history to devise practical steps for safeguarding our homeland, upholding our sovereignty, and bolstering our National pride.

In this briefing we will discuss the following:

- » National Security and Global Stability
- » Economic Stability and Growth
- » Political Integrity and Leadership
- » Veteran Support and Resilience - National Center for Healthy Veterans

YOUR MISSION: Enhance your understanding of current geopolitical and domestic threats, emphasize the importance of resilience, and mobilize to support our veterans and fortify our national security.

 ATTENTION: Our national security is under greater threat today than ever before.

WHY YOU SHOULD CARE

- » America's weakened geopolitical standing threatens the quality of life of all Americans as new threats emerge.
- » National security is under threat as weak leaders have failed in foreign policy endeavors.

- » The American economy is struggling as inflation tears through the nation and cripples our currency.
- » The US is losing its economic power on the world stage which will heavily impact your savings and investments.
- » The lawfare being used in our nation, and some allied nations, is breaking down democracy and destroying the faith people have in their leaders.
- » Failing to care for veterans makes military service less appealing and crushes the spirit of those serving and those who have served our nation.

Ep. 8-302 (OSINT) Open-Sourced Intelligence Report. This briefing conversation between Kevin Freeman and Maj. Gen. Bob Dees. Bob is a friend of the Economic War Room® and an American Patriot.

Maj Gen. Bob Dees is a retired major general in the United States Army. A specialist on national security issues, he was the chairman of the Ben Carson campaign for the Republican presidential nomination in 2016.

He was the vice director for operational plans and interoperability for the Department of Defense. He was also Assistant Division Commander of the 101st Airborne Division; Commander, 2nd Infantry Division, U.S. Forces Korea; Deputy Commander of V Corps in Europe; and Commander, U.S.-Israeli Joint Task Force for Missile Defense.

After he officially retired from the U.S. military on January 1, 2003, he worked for the next two years as the Executive Director of Defense Strategies for Microsoft Corporation.[3] In 2005, he became the executive director of Military Ministry,[3] focusing on soldiers coming home from the war with post-traumatic stress.[4] After writing the Resilience Trilogy, he was appointed and currently serves as Associate Vice President of Military Outreach and Director, Institute for Military Resilience, at Liberty University.

1. National Security and Global Stability

Over the last few years, the US foreign policy has slipped into appeasement as we allow other nations to keep us from our interests.

“Appeasement invites adventurism. We’re seeing that in China, Russia, Iran through their surrogates, in particular. We’ve funded Iran to fund their surrogates.”

–Maj. Gen. Bob Dees

Russia has invaded Ukraine. China has threatened Taiwan and funded Iran. And many nations that were once economic allies have become members of BRICS.

The world is slowly shifting away from US influence and as it does, US national security becomes less and less secure.

“We have a failed strategy and poor military readiness to support that strategy. Across the board, we are at greater risk now than ever before.” –Maj. Gen. Bob Dees

The U.S.'s global standing as a leader is at stake. Weak national defense encourages adversaries, leading to more global conflicts and less international cooperation.

More conflicts could spark a major war or encourage more allies to abandon America in search of safer waters.

Security and peace are crucial for the well-being of every citizen. A nation constantly under threat can create an unstable environment affecting job security, travel safety, and overall quality of life.

If things do not change, the current uncertainty many Americans feel under the Biden administration may only be the beginning.

⚠ Attention: American National security is under threat as foreign policy failures and a lack of military preparedness cripples our nation and encourages our adversaries.

2. Economic Stability and Growth

These threats to national security include economic warfare which has caused the US to begin to lose control of the global markets.

Economic instability affects savings, investments, prices of goods, and job security. Stability ensures a better standard of living and financial security for citizens.

China and Russia are directly targeting our economic power to weaken our grip on global politics. China's major target is Taiwan because of its essential role in the American economy.

“We have a distinct national interest in Taiwan, not just for the preservation of democracy, but also for the preservation of our economic power.” –Maj. Gen. Bob Dees

Economic strength is tied to national security. A weak economy can limit a nation's ability to defend itself, fund essential services, and maintain its status as a global leader.

America's victory in WWII is often attributed to the strength of her industrial economy. Germany on the other hand ran into major supply chain issues, especially for essential materials like steel and oil.

China intends to gain more control of the global industrial economy while cutting the US off from essential materials in the supply chain for modern technologies.

“China's military development and aggressive stance toward Taiwan are alarming... The theft of intellectual property and infiltration within the U.S. are significant risks.”
–Maj. Gen. Bob Dees

China has been intentionally infiltrating our nation's greatest businesses to steal our technology. This has allowed the Chinese military to develop their military equipment and strengthen their air force and navy.

A well-organized attack on US allies could cripple the US economy and give China the upper hand in the case of a hot war. The threat of such a war is increasingly dangerous.

Attention: American national security depends on the American economy and the power and influence of our currency, companies, and culture.

3. Political Integrity and Leadership

These threats are only further fueled by domestic conflicts.

Trust in political leadership influences national morale and civic engagement. Reliable leaders ensure that citizens' voices and rights are respected and upheld.

The reality of modern American politics is that the people are divided on moral grounds as two differing world views are vying for power.

Neither side considers the other to be capable of integrity. This is heavily weakening our ability to defend itself. A house divided cannot stand.

“I know there. Criminal charges being brought against Netanyahu and against Israel and so forth in these international tribunals and courts and so forth, which is a lawfare like we’re seeing with President Trump.” –Kevin Freeman

What has happened to Trump is now being replicated in other allied nations as political opponents seek to abuse the legal system for their own political gain.

This tearing of the judicial fabric strips the nation of integrity and destroys the trust of the people.

“That’s how you conquer, right? Divide then conquer. So, I’m very concerned about what we’re seeing politically... I think the American people are very smart and are beginning to wake up. There’s a media campaign to try and take us to false narratives.”
–Kevin Freeman

The Biden administration and the mainstream media have been echoing lies both about Trump and their own effectiveness.

The Biden Administration has been incapable of safeguarding our national interests and the stability the world once enjoyed has spiraled down into chaos.

⚠ Attention: Effective and robust leadership is necessary for formulating and executing policies that safeguard national interests and promote global stability.

4. Veteran Support and Resilience - National Center for Healthy Veterans

Veterans are our family, friends, and community members. Their health affects social costs and community strength.

“We as a nation must invest in our service-oriented industries. And what I’m talking about, the people who wear the cloth of the nation: first responders, military folks, veterans, policemen, etc. if we’re not investing in them, we’re failing as a nation and our future is at risk.”
–Maj. Gen. Bob Dees

Proper care for veterans is a mark of a compassionate and resilient society. Ignoring their needs can lead to increased mental health issues, homelessness, and a weakened social fabric.

The National Center for Healthy Veterans runs multiple programs to help our heroes return home to life in America and reengage with their families and communities.

They are actively working to reshape veteran care in America to honor the men and women who serve our nation.

Major General Bob Dees (ret) is President for the National Center for Healthy Veterans (NCHV)

At NCHV they take a faith-based, holistic approach to “Returning Healthy Veterans to America” in the natural healing environment of Valor Farm near Altavista, Virginia. Our Patriots – Veterans who participate in our programs – live and perform dignified work in community while participating in resilience, trauma recovery, and career preparation programs. As the nation’s premier faith-based program for veterans, the NCHV employ a variety of experiential and technology-based approaches that support the physical, mental, spiritual, emotional, and relational healing for America’s veterans and their families.

They Serve Veterans At Risk from Post-Traumatic Stress, Traumatic Brain Injury, or Moral Injury

“The National Center for Healthy Veterans serves at-risk veterans, who we call Patriots, who are willing to invest nine months at Valor Farm for a ‘reset and restart.’ We expect them to commit to change, be willing to work toward re-optimizing their daily performance, and to restore family and other relationships. Our Veterans must be able to live, learn, work, and train in a rural farm environment.” –Maj. Gen. Bob Dees

Attention: Supporting our veterans is an essential part of American life and the measure to which the care for veterans is prioritized is telling of our nation’s moral integrity.
